ROBLOX models these badges and credit prizes after the badges found in games like Journey, where a lot of doing nothing gives you a lot of money, which is possibly a reason some players don't log in. ROBLOX also has very few quests to complete that reward badges/credits.

In ROBLOX, safety is one of the main concerns facing parents. The website can sometimes be a risky place for children because they sometimes come across people being rude, bullying, etc. [138] . ROBLOX is doing its best to make sure that its users stay safe while playing games. First, ROBLOX has safety features in place. A "report user" button is at the bottom right of every player's screen. This button appears if someone is acting rude to you in a game. Pressing it leads you to a page where you can add as much detail as you can about what happened and why it was wrong. The person reading the complaint will then investigate the situation and take necessary actions towards offending players. Players have also found ways to use this button for wrong reasons, like falsely reporting users to get them banned from playing ROBLOX.

For example, Jailbreak offers a premium feature which allows players to purchase more life points. As the game is free, there is no way for them to gain XP in the traditional sense. Instead of implementing XP via cash or coin drop-rates (as would be done in a game that relies on premium features), they offer more life points as a way to make it easier for players if they choose to purchase them. Free games also don't have an option of offering premium features that modify their economies or XP systems. Therefore, they usually offer only the default system as an option for non-Premium members.
